

West Coast Cucina

MARILYN GARDUNIO, CKD, of J.B. Turner & Sons had formed a two-year relationship with these homeowners over the course of an extensive design and remodel of their Alamo, California, home. So when the family purchased a vacation home in Coronado, they again turned to the trusted design team at J.B. Turner & Sons to transform the 1970s Tudor-style house into a comfortable coastal-style home.

Taking into consideration how the family would use the space as well as the surrounding waterscape, Gardunio planned out a full outdoor living area for the family to fully enjoy the warm Southern California weather.

The space began as a narrow, bare concrete slab, but Gardunio got to work on creating a full kitchen and entertaining area. The kitchen area now includes a sink, ice maker, refrigerator, barbeque, and lots of cabinet space. In the entertaining area, fulfilling clients' desire for a focal point, Gardunio designed a dramatic waterfall fireplace to act as a gathering spot for the family and their guests. She also positioned the waterfall fireplace so the master bedroom has a view of it from bed.

By transforming an area that was lacking into a luxe outdoor living area, Gardunio has once again designed a space this family can enjoy with one another, friends, and family. Learn more about this designer at www.jbturnerkitchens.com.
